RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Mongolian National University of Medical Sciences is one of Mongolia's premier public institutions. The university has a rich history of pioneering medical education and health care development, and remains on the forefront of creating new knowledge in Mongolia.

Since its establishment, the Mongolian National University of Medical Sciences has been focusing on the development of new laboratories and the improvement of basic and clinical sciences research facilities.

Established in 2013, MNUMS's "Science and Technology Center" plays a key role in innovative and advanced research projects at the university.

The university opened The Core Laboratory which has sections on core disciplines of bioscience, including cell biology, genomics, proteomics, chemical analysis, a live cell imaging system, as well as other supporting sections such as an experimental animal facility.

UNIVERSITY GENERAL HOSPITAL

University General Hospital was established on 25 May 2007 as an outpatient clinic with departments of gastroenterology, endoscopy, neurology, rehabilitation, surgery, ENT, ophthalmology and diagnostic imaging.

Planned appointments with palliative care, dermatology, pediatrics, urology, psychiatry, and rheumatology are available for patients. In order to schedule an appointment, patients may call our reception. University General Hospital organizes health check services for organizations, companies, collectives and individuals, for general healthcare, diagnosing specific diseases, and providing patient education.

In 2018, Japan Mongolia Teaching Hospital, built with Japanese Government Aid will open at the new campus in east Ulaanbaatar city.

STUDENTS ASSOCIATIONS AND CLUBS:

- Over 60 clubs and associations are working effectively at the Mongolian National University of Medical Sciences.
- Students have the opportunity to experience extracurricular activities according to their chosen fields via some of the more prestigious clubs.
- The clubs provide a wide range of activities for human development as well as social work.
